I would choose to invest in Microsoft because it is one of the more stable options. The Microsoft graph for closing prices has a better upward trend compared to some of the other graphs. The difference in percentage is also relatively lower compared to the other major tech companies.

Since Microsoft is a majority shareholder of open ai, I think that gave the company a boost, as ai is becoming more popular. Microsoft has also recently announced that they will be releasing a new Surface Laptop with more capabilities than their old designs.
